Welcome to discover Transanal irrigation (TAI) – a solution for constipation and fecal incontinence.

ACCT Webinar, February 9th, 15:00-16:00 CET

Constipation and fecal incontinence are bothersome symptoms of bowel dysfunction, often more common than talked about. During one hour we will take a closer look at the management of these symptoms, which are often quite complex, and not always solved with conservative methods. In some patient groups, TAI is an established therapy for constipation and fecal incontinence, while it is rarely used in others. With the support of Professors Jan Tack and Anton Emmanuel, this webinar will introduce TAI as a possible management option for a wider group of patients and discuss how to improve adherence to the therapy.
